Hello, In a Craig's List Add it mentions the Goldline going through Highland Square. In all the info on your website it appears that is not the case. It is difficult to tell from the maps where exactly the stops in NW Denver will be. Can you clarify? Thanks! Jen	email	Jun 02 2008
Hello, my name is John XXXXX and my phone number is XXX.XXX.XXXX. I am an owner of a self-storage business located at Pecos and I-76, which is very near where the Pecos station –I don't know what the name of the station is, but where the station there is going to be located. We have a 23 acre parcel, I'm hoping to get a better understanding of how the alternative sites for the stations have been arrived at and hopefully to have a brief dialoge relative to the storage facility itself. If someone could call me back my number is XXX.XXX.XXXX I would appreciate it. Thank you.	phone	Jun 05 2008
Hello my name is Ryan XXXX and I work for XXXX XXXXX in San Antonio, Texas, and I just had a question about the Gold Line, particularly for the study. I see there is one that has been done for 2025 so I was wondering if there is another study done for 2016 when it is scheduled to open. Just give me a call back at the office XXX.XXX.XXXX. Again my name is Ryan XXXXX. Thank you.	phone	Jun 10 2008
Yes my name is Carol. My phone number is XXX.XXX.XXXX. I have some questions regarding the Gold Line. Number one, I wonder if the negotiations between Union Pacific and the FasTracks for the Northwest Corridor and Gold Line have been resolved and if you are moving forward. Number two, I have heard mixed things in terms of the Hammond Project on the corner of Grandview and Wadsworth where the trains are going at grade level and the cars are going underneath. I've heard they have made accommodations for the light rail, and I have also heard that when and if the light rail passes that they are going to have to tear a bunch out and start over. So I would like to know what's true and what's not. Thank you very much.	phone	Jun 18 2008
