

Construction Impacts

- Construction impacts would be temporary in nature and would occur only during the duration of construction.
- Temporary construction impacts may be associated with heavy equipment use, access changes, road closures, detours, staging, materials storage, and parking as necessary to construct the project.
- Construction easements may be required along the corridor. These easements will be identified during the design phase.

RTD will prepare a Construction Management Plan to reduce or mitigate impacts of construction.